RESUME OF WILLIAM MICHAEL RAIKE

William M. Raikes was born in Chicago, Illinois, in 1943. He attended Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, and was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1964, having majored in mathematics. He continued graduate work at Northwestern, where he was awarded the Master of Science in June 1965 and the Doctor of Philosophy in August 1967. His research in the areas of operations research and probabilistic mathematical programming was under the direction of Professor A. Charnes.

In September 1967 he joined the faculty of the University of Texas at Austin as Assistant Professor of Statistics in the Graduate School of Business, with a joint appointment as Assistant Professor of Computer Sciences in the College of Arts and Sciences.

He left the University of Texas in June 1970 in order to pursue his consulting interests full-time, and has served both industrial and governmental organizations as a consultant.

In January 1971 he joined the faculty of the Naval Postgraduate School where he is teaching in the Department of Operations Research. His current research is concerned with both theoretical and computational aspects of operations research and mathematical programming.

He is author of more than twenty-five articles and research reports, as well as an elementary textbook in linear algebra and calculus, and has presented numerous papers at national and international meetings of various professional societies.

He is a member of the Institute of Management Sciences, Operations Research Society of America, Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics, and the Econometric Society.
